"The LEADER'S EDGE" by drmichaelbell

If you've been following this column for more than a minute, you already know I'm a proponent of church leadership teams. Nobody can do ministry alone, and no healthy church is built around one person's gifts, preferences or personality. You've heard the adage, "Teamwork makes the dream work." That's true, but teamwork only works when the people on the team understand that leadership isn't about having a title; it's about embodying responsibility. Leadership is a pattern to model. Every member of a leadership team brings something unique to the table, but the strength of the team is multiplied when each leader is willing to be an example of what we're asking others to become.

Years ago, NBA television analyst Charles Barkley declared in a controversial Nike commercial, "I am not a role model." He was making a point about parents not surrendering their responsibility to athletes and celebrities. But whether he wanted to be one or not, visible people influence watching people. That's even more true in the Church. Leaders are living models. People may listen to what we say, but they learn from what we consistently do. Our actions shape culture, set expectations, build or erode trust, and communicate what really matters.

That means leaders must be examples in discipleship. Discipleship is formation. It's the ongoing work of being shaped by the way of Jesus. Leaders ought to be the first to study the Word of God, not so we can quote Scripture to impress or manipulate people, but so the Word can shape who we are, discipline our desires, and expand how we think. A leader who isn't willing to grow can't help others grow. We can't call people to grow while we remain satisfied with shallow understanding and nocuous habits.

Leaders must also be examples in stewardship. Stewardship is managing God's blessings God's way for God's glory. That includes money, time, influence, opportunities, relationships and responsibilities. Stewardship reminds us that what we have is not ours to waste, hoard or mismanage. God's gifts are entrusted to us for faithful use. When leaders give consistently, serve responsibly, plan carefully and handle resources with integrity, they teach the congregation that generosity and accountability belong together.

Leaders must be examples in followership. Before leaders lead, leaders follow. We follow God's will. We follow the ethical way of Jesus. We follow the agreed-upon vision, mission and direction of the Church. A leader who refuses to follow creates confusion, not progress. Strong leaders don't have to have their way to be valuable. They know how to support direction, honor the process, and promote unity.

Leaders must also be examples in marketing the Church. Marketing is faithful promotion. It's telling the story of what God is doing in and through the congregation. When leaders share announcements, invite people, speak well of the Church, promote ministries and communicate with enthusiasm, they help create momentum. People should never have to wonder whether leaders believe in the ministry they serve.

Effective modeling requires clarity, transparency and feedback. Clarity lets people know what is expected. Transparency helps people understand why decisions are made. Feedback keeps leaders humble enough to keep growing. In the end, leadership isn't merely about sitting at the table. It's about setting an example worth following.

Speak Life Thought with Dr. Yolanda G. Butler

A Life of Perseverance to the Promise

"12 'Now swear to me by the Lord that you will be kind to me and my family since I have helped you. Give me some guarantee that 13 when Jericho is conquered, you will let me live, along with my father and mother, my brothers and sisters, and all their families.' 14 'We offer our own lives as a guarantee for your safety,' the men agreed. 'If you don't betray us, we will keep our promise and be kind to you when the Lord gives us the land.' (Joshua 2:12-14 NLT)

The word "perseverance" means to steadfastly maintain your faith and obedience to God, especially when facing trials, suffering, or temptation. It is not just "hanging on" passively but remaining anchored in the Father's promises with the assurance that He will reward you for your faithfulness.

Perseverance is a determined mindset that says, "I can do all things through Christ who gives me strength" (Philippians 4:13). It is placing total trust, confidence, and reliance in the character of the Almighty God, His promises, and Word. There is no other solid foundation than what He has established. And on that foundation, you must daily endeavor to build your faith through trials, testing, challenges, and hard times, knowing that you are never alone, for God has promised that He will work out ALL things on your behalf (Romans 8:28).

Rahab was a Canaanite prostitute who aided the Israelite spies in Jericho. As a result of her belief in the God of Israel, she and her family were spared during Joshua's conquest of Jericho, included in Jesus' genealogy, and praised in the New Testament for her faith and her actions (Hebrews 11:31, James 2:25).

She persevered in her faith in the True and Living God. She worked faith when she hid the spies despite endangering her life and all her household. She persevered in obedience to the agreement she made with the spies. She persevered when everyone and everything around her was destroyed except her family. She persevered in the promise, and she and all her household were saved. The Father acknowledged her faith, and she was rewarded with being engrafted into the lineage of Jesus Christ our Lord and Savior.

What does this teach us? You can persevere when you place your trust in the One and True Living God, the creator of all life—Elohim. You persevere not only with your mouth but with your actions, for faith without works is dead (James 2:26). Even when it does not make sense, keep believing, and keep moving. You persevere when you stay obedient to the assignment, being mindful of distractions. You persevere even when others around you walk away, don't understand, or fall off. You persevere when you don't quit. Your goal is the promise the Father made to you. You persevere because you want to please the Father, for without faith it is impossible to please Him (Hebrews 11:6). You persevere because the Father's promises are yes and Amen. If He said it, it will come to pass. If He sent it out, it will not return to Him void but will accomplish all that He spoke (Isaiah 55:11).

Hebrews 10:34-35 TPT sums it up well. "35 So don't lose your bold, courageous faith, for you are destined for a great reward! 36 You need the strength of endurance to reveal the poetry of God's will, and then you receive the promise in full."

So dear hearts, be determined to persevere to receive the promise in full.

I have been blessed to serve as Senior Pastor of Pilgrim Rest for 22 years. I am the 7th Pastor of Pilgrim Rest during these 70 years. Pilgrim Rest has been a beacon of light in the community, we have served our community through food drives, clothes giveaways and outreach ministries. We have been blessed during our 70 years holding up the blood stained banner, leading the lost to Christ, encouraging the saints of God to "Grow In The Grace And The Knowledge Of Our Lord And Saviour Jesus The Christ" 2 Peter 3:18.

I have been blessed to have my wife (Margaret) of 44 years of marriage and First Lady of Pilgrim Rest to be by my side. The Church has had some renovations and upgrades during our tenure, and we are continuing to renovate our annex and classrooms, but our main focus is making disciples, teaching and preaching the word of God.

We are thankful to God and Pilgrim Rest for their prayers and support during this historical time in the life of the Church. We look forward to the works that God has in store for the Kingdom through Pilgrim Rest.

"Now unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us, Unto him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen" Ephesians 3:20-21.

Baker Funeral Home celebrate 100 years of service to North Texas and Beyond

Baker Funeral Home was founded in the Summer of 1917 by Mr. James Nathan Baker, Sr., in search of a better way to support his growing family. Mr. Baker was a Pullman Porter for the Santa Fe Railroad, a position he held for 15 years at the time.

Mr. Baker always encouraged other Blacks to become entrepreneurs. Following his own advice, he resigned from Santa Fe Railroad and went into partnership with his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mattie Gaston Barnes in their mutual hometown of Cleburne, Texas. There were no funeral homes for African Americans in Cleburne, so he and Mrs. Barnes started what would become a historic institution, Baker Funeral Home, Inc.

In 1922, Mr. Baker was licensed by the state of Texas as an embalmer. That same year, he hired his first full-time employee, Mrs. Argoldia Sedalia Smith.

In his travels, Baker noticed that like in Cleburne, there were no funeral homes for African Americans in the city of Fort Worth. In 1926, Baker opened Baker Undertaking Company at 301 East Rosedale Street in a two-story house owned by his father, the Reverend Henry Baker, founder of Baker Chapel African Methodist Episcopal Church (which started at the funeral home location and later moved to 1050 East Humbolt.) Rev. Baker died in 1944 but was able to see his son become a successful funeral home proprietor. Mr. Baker owned funeral homes in Cleburne, Fort Worth, and Mineral Wells, Texas.

He also started People's Burial Park, selling Cemetery property at a low cost. James Nathan Baker Sr. (1885-1970) played a significant role in the later development and stewardship of People's Burial Park. Although the cemetery was originally established in 1931 by the Fort Worth Cemetery Association, Baker became influential in its ownership and management after World War II:

In the 1940s, James Nathan Baker Sr. purchased People's Burial Park, taking ownership of the cemetery. This transferred stewardship from the original founders' interests to Baker and his associates.

His acquisition of the cemetery complemented his broader role in funeral services in the region: Baker was a prominent African-American funeral director who founded Baker Funeral Home and related burial planning services (including the Diamond Mutual Life Insurance Company).

By owning and operating People's Burial Park, Baker helped ensure continued burial services for the African-American community in the Fort Worth/Haltom City area, integrating cemetery operation with his funeral business and community service legacy.

In summary, Baker's influence on People's Burial Park was as a subsequent owner and steward, embedding the cemetery within his family's long-standing funeral and burial service enterprises that served the broader African-American community.

In 2004, Baker Funeral Home was recognized as a Historic Landmark by the State of Texas and a marker was erected on the property, as well as listed in the National Registry. Historic Baker has remained solely in the Baker Family and is run by the Third and Fourth generations. 2026 marks 100 years in the same location at 301 East Rosedale Street, Fort Worth, Texas. Known nationwide for providing dignity, integrity, and excellence in Funeral Service.

Churches Working together - It's all about Christ

It is absolutely amazing to witness the unity between the Full Gospel Baptist Church Fellowship International and the Church of God in Christ. Seeing the founder of Full Gospel, Bishop Paul S. Morton, and the Presiding Bishop of COGIC, Bishop J. Drew Sheard, standing together is a powerful reminder of what the Body of Christ is supposed to look like.

While the Full Gospel Baptist movement and COGIC come from different denominational traditions Full Gospel emerging from the Baptist tradition with a strong emphasis on the gifts of the Holy Spirit, and COGIC being rooted in the historic Pentecostal-Holiness movement they share a common belief in the authority of Scripture, the saving power of Jesus Christ, the work of the Holy Spirit, and the mission of advancing God's Kingdom.

In a season where many believers spend more time debating doctrinal differences than celebrating what unites us, it is refreshing to see leaders choosing fellowship over division. This is a beautiful reminder that while our traditions may differ, our Savior is the same, our mission is the same, and the Kingdom is always greater than our denominations.

This is what Christian unity should look like.
